We are committed to helping students reach their fullest potential and creating a psychologically safe environment. Another way in which this is done is through a unified, systematic focus on Social-Emotional Learning (SEL).

By establishing SEL practices in our schools, we work to help students develop skills and strategies to understand and manage emotions, set and achieve positive goals, feel and show empathy for others, establish and maintain positive relationships, and make responsible decisions. The research is clear that students need a wide array of strengths to succeed in life – both now and after high school. Students with strong social and emotional skills have increased social, emotional, behavioral, and psychological benefits, as well as positive academic outcomes, according to research. By having a focus on SEL and mental health, we focus on the “whole child” and hope to help our students build resilience and strengthen social and emotional skills and supports so they are equipped to reach their fullest potential in all aspects of life.

Visit www.phmschools.org/SEL for more information on P-H-M's SEL practices and parent resources that can help you with your child.
